

WAS GREAT DAY IN LEGISLATURE

John C. Spooner Declared Elected to Succeed Himself in the U. S. Senate.

ACCEPTS ELECTION

He Appears Before the Joint Session and Gives an Eloquent Address of Acceptance.

(By Staff Correspondent). Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—John C. Spooner was formally elected to succeed himself as United States senator at the joint convention of the two houses of the legislature at noon today, receiving the full republican vote of both houses, 105, while 28 democratic votes went to Neal Brown.

Governor LaFollette and the other state officers and the justice of the supreme court occupied front seats at the convention, entering the assembly chamber with the same formality as did the senators.

Election Declared. Lieutenant Governor Davidson presided. The Journals of the two houses, showing yesterday's vote were read, and another vote was then taken in joint convention. Lieutenant Governor Davidson then declared John C. Spooner elected United States senator for the term beginning March 4th, 1903.

Brought Before Convention. A committee, consisting of Senator Stout, Assemblymen Ray and Frear, were appointed to escort Senator Spooner before the convention. The senator was introduced by the lieutenant governor in a graceful speech. He was greeted with loud applause and responded with an eloquent speech.

W. C. VANKIRK IS HURT BY ELEVATOR

Gets His Left Foot Between Car and Wall, and Has It Badly Bruised.

It was all due to the heavy shoe that he was wearing at the time, that W. C. Vankirk did not lose his foot while operating the elevator at the Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co's. plant this morning.

Foot Is Caught. About 11:30 Mr. Vankirk was on the elevator with a load of goods which he was taking to the second floor. The goods took up the most of the space on the car and he was obliged to stand close to the edge and did not notice that his left foot projected over the side of the car. When the second story was reached his foot was caught between the flooring and the side of the car and drawn through the narrow space between them, before he could bring the elevator to a standstill. His cries attracted the attention of the other employees in the building and he was carried into the office and a call sent for the patrol wagon to take him to his home.

No Bones Broken. Dr. W. H. Palmer examined his injuries and found that although the foot was badly jammed and bruised no bones were broken. The shoe he was wearing at the time had a heavy double sole and although it was twisted out of shape it saved his foot from being broken and crushed.

The greatest care was taken to prevent anyone from getting into the hall who could not be vouched for.

LIVES LOST IN FEARFUL WRECK

Carelessness of Engineer Is Responsible for an Awful Disaster in New Jersey.

MANY ARE KILLED

A New York Flyer Crashed Into a Suburban Train, and Flames Envelop the Wreck.

(Special By Scripps-McIntee). New York, Jan. 28.—Conservative estimates this morning place the number of dead in the terrible wreck on the Central of New Jersey railroad, near Westfield, N. J., last night at twenty. Railroad officials state that they have accounted for but fifteen dead, fourteen of whom were taken from the wreck and one who died afterwards. Searchers are still digging among the smoldering ruins.

Wreck Takes Fire

The Royal Blue Line flyer, leaving New York at 6:30 o'clock crashed into the rear of a local suburban train just west of the Westfield station. Its tremendous momentum with the weight of the heavy vestibuled train back of it carried the engine of the flyer clear through the rear car of the local and half way through the second car, which in turn telescoped the one directly in front. Fire immediately broke out in the wreck, adding to the torture of the helpless injured.

Horror Increased

A long mail train outward bound was passing on a parallel track just as the wreck occurred. Many who were hurled aside by the engine and would have escaped with comparatively slight injuries were thrown back into the wreck by the cars of the mail train, which was also badly crippled.

Engineer Blamed

The officials of the road this morning issued a statement in which they placed the entire responsibility for the disaster on John Davis, of Philadelphia, engineer of the Royal Blue Flyer. The officials declare that Davis, who is among the dead, ran past signals showing that the track was not clear. Besides the dead from thirty to fifty people were badly injured and many of them will doubtless die as the result of their injuries.

Death List Increases

New York, Jan. 28.—At noon it was estimated that the list of dead reached thirty. Accurate estimate may never be made for as the ruins of the ill-fated train were pulled out from under the wrecked engine of the flyer, parts of bodies were found and it is believed that many were burned.

Engineer Not Dead

Engineer Davis, who was reported dead, is still alive, but in a dying condition. So far only sixteen corpses have been identified. Six unidentified bodies are in the Plainfield morgue and several bodies are scattered through the hamlets in that vicinity. Several unidentified bodies are also in Westfield station. The bodies of some of the unidentified are battered and burned beyond recognition.

Many Injured

The number of injured is at least forty, and of these many will die. Most of the dead and injured are residents of Plainfield and the whole town is plunged in gloom. When the funeral of the victims is held a day of mourning will be declared.

WARDEN DRAFAHL MAKES AN ARREST

An Offender Caught Yesterday Afternoon, While Spearfishing Below Monterey.

Game Warden Peter Drafahl was in the city today and swore out a warrant for a boy for spearfishing fish, contrary to law. Drafahl caught him yesterday afternoon down the river near the old Baines farm and after arresting him confiscated his fish, axe and fish spear.

Rides on Cake of Ice

He had dislodged a large cake of ice near the shore and was floating down the river catching any fish that he might see as he floated along with the current, when Warden Drafahl who was driving to town along the road on the opposite side of the river spied him.

Caught With the Fish

Drafahl drove up to the Monterey bridge, crossed the river and drove down near where he had seen him at work. He hitched his horse back in the woods and walked down to the shore and stopped behind a large tree. He was then coming along the shore towards him, gathering up his fish, which he had thrown ashore as he speared them. When the ice reached the place where Drafahl was standing behind the tree he stepped out and arrested him. He had one black bass, three or four croppies and a sucker which he had caught. This is not his first offense against the game laws, as he was mixed up with some boys catching rabbits with a ferret a short time ago. No complaint was made a gnat's eye at that time, but he paid part of the fine. The minimum fine in this case is $10.

ROCK COUNTY CALEDONIAN SOCIETY HONORS MEMORY OF ROBERT BURNS

PRaises OF SCOTLAND AND HER SONS ARE SUNG.

BANQUET IS A GRAND SUCCESS

Clever Toasts and Splendid Music Follow the Spread—Then the Merry Dance.

Scotch and American banners
Scotch plaids, the portrait of Robert Burns, the immortal bard at whose shrine all true sons of Scotia bow, great palms and a large bouquet of Scotch heather formed the appropriate decorations at Central hall on Friday evening. The occasion was the one hundred forty-fourth anniversary of the birth of Robert Burns and in all the history of the Rock County Caledonian society this great day in the Scottish year was never more fittingly or more enjoyably celebrated.

Banquet Is Served
The innovation of having a banquet for the entertainment of the early evening proved even more successful than the committee of arrangements had dared to hope. It was only a few minutes past the appointed hour 6:30 o'clock, when the seating of the guests at the long and attractively spread tables began. Covers were laid for two hundred people
and there were but few vacant seats.
The speakers of the evening were seated at the table of honor which was decorated with the Scotch heather as well as with the fern leaves and palms which graced the other tables. During the entire service of the supper Smith's orchestra furnished an excellent concert program,
their selections being frequently applauded.

Genuine Scotch Cooking
Scotch short bread was the novelty on the menu, the delicacy of the Highlands being tasted for the first time by the majority of the people at the banquet. The menu also included an abundance of other substantial and dainties. Mrs. Louise Bowerman was the caterer and the service was faultless a large committee of ladies from the King's Daughters of the Baptist church assisting with the waiting on the tables.

Dr. Mills Takes Charge
When ample justice had been done
the feast of good things. Dr. Jas.
Mills, president of the Caledonian society, called the company to order and bade them welcome in a few well-chosen words. He gave a brief resume of the Burns' anniversaries that have been held in this city, the first one being on the one hundredth anniversary, forty-four years ago. Three hundred fifty people attended the banquet in Lappin's hall, $2.50 a plate being charged. Three of the people at Central hall on Tuesday evening
were guests at this first banquet, they being Mrs. David Clark, George Skinner and William Hodge. Two anniversaries was observed for the two following years but during the civil war it was allowed to pass unnoticed. For the past seventeen years, the Caledonian society has had charge of the celebration.

Tribute To Burns
Dr. Mills presided happily as toastmaster and had some fitting introduction for each speaker. The first response was given by the Rev. Robert C. Denison, who spoke in his direct and charming manner on "The Immortal Memory of Burns." He said in brief that the crown of laurel to be given to Burns is that he was the poet of the people and the prince of all such poets. Burns sang his songs in the language of the people and about common things. He was the incarnation of the Scottish land and the Scotch spirit. In his poetry he swept the whole gamut of Scotch spirit and struck every note of Scotch life. His mistakes and sins helped him to be great. His poetry breathes the unconquerable element of human life and is the voice of human hope.
He was the prophet of peace and the greatest note of the human soul was struck in his poems which teach the brotherhood of man.

A Noted Man
Hon. Wallace Bruce of Brooklyn,
N. Y., who lectured on the Peoples' Lecture course at the Congregational church, was then given cordial welcome and spoke for several minutes to the delight of the audience. After reciting one of his own poems on an imaginary meeting between Sir
Walter Scott, William Shakespeare and Robert Burns, he told something of the erection of the Burns cottage at the World's fair in St. Louis. His closing tribute was to Sir Walter Scott and Robert Burns and as Mr.
Bruce left the hall to keep his engagement at the Congregational church he was followed by an ovation
of applause.

William Garbutt's tenor voice was heard in "Mary of Argyll" with such pleasing effect that he was compelled to respond to an encore. For his second number he gave "Flow Gently Sweet Afton." Mrs. J. F. Sweeney presided at the piano during all the vocal numbers on the program.

A Pleasing Toast
In his response to the toast "Our Auld Hame and Our New Hame," Alexander Galbraith combined beautiful descriptions of Scottish scenery, humorous stories and touches of tender sentiment regarding both the old and new homes. Both were loved and he should attempt no comparison.
Here there is the strenuous life, there the contented life. Here there are richer opportunities and possibly greater temptations. He expressed the hope that all descendants of Scotland would prove worthy of their heritage and that the bond which unites Scotland and America would grow firmer and closer.

The musical gem of the evening was the instrumental selection, a medley of Scotch airs, played by Miss Mabel Woodbury, violin; Miss Edith Sover-hill, mandolin; Miss Lalla Soverhill, banjo; and Miss Cora Soverhill, piano. The selection was beautifully played and an insistent demand for an encore was given but the ladies declined to respond. The orchestra was handicapped by the absence of little Wilma Soverhill, the leader, who was suffering from a severe sore throat.

Her absence necessitated some changes, but the number was entirely delightful.

Ancestors Eulogized
One of the best responses of the evening was given by A. E. Matheson, whose toast was, "Our Fathers and Mothers." Mr. Matheson spoke eloquently of the fact that reverence for ancestors is true of all nations
but it is especially true of the Scottish people. In every one there are certain tendencies derived from their ancestors. He referred to some of the leading characteristics of the Scotch people which are dominant traits in their lives. Chief among them are intensity, thrift, rugged honesty and that religious spirit which includes all the others. It is these qualities which have made the Scotch a great people and leaders in many lines of the world's activities. It is these qualities which give the Scotch
a right to be proud of themselves.

Music And Poetry
After the inspiring song "Rolling Home to Bonnie Scotland," which was sung with feeling by Col. E. O. Kimberley, Rev. J. T. Henderson responded to the toast, "Scottish Poetry and Literature." All thought which moves the world is literature and spoken literature is a larger part than the written literature. Walter Scott spoke more poetry than he wrote. Scottish poetry has some distinctive qualities. A little is made to go a long way and little things, the common things of life, are exalted.
Scotch literature is rich in the two kinds of books, those which require deep thought and study and those which may be picked up for a few moments. The greatest literature of Scotland is its sacred literature. Its literature is great because of its beautiful dialect and because the Scotch are a great people. Rev. Henderson introduced several clever stories during his response and gave the Scotch a quiet rub on their fondness for hearing their people praised in extravagant terms.

Speaker From Racine
John M. Driver, of Racine, paid high tribute to the bond which unites all Scotchmen his toast being, "Our Brothers the World Over." He told some funny stories and read several quotations, appropriate to the subject.

The audience was so delighted with Leonard Mathews' singing of "Here's a Health Bonnie Scotland to Thee" that he was compelled to respond to an encore. He complied by singing
"Annie Laurie."

A Clever Response
Especially bright and interesting was Supt. H. C. Buell's response to the toast, "Our Guests." He referred to the fact that the hospitality of the Scotch people has passed into a proverb. Supt. Buell felt that he might play the double part of host and guest. As a son of Wisconsin he was glad to welcome those who had come from across the seas. He was also glad to speak in behalf of those who were guests of the Caledonian society and return their thanks for an evening happily spent. After telling some clever stories, Supt. Buell referred to the fact that in a broader sense the entire reading world is the guest of Scotland. The literary world looks to the Scotch people as its host. The speaker then paid tribute to some of the Scotch authors and closed by reading a sentiment from Emerson on the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Burns.

Praised The Lassies
The closing response of the evening was one of the happiest. The toast was "The Lassies—God Bless Them," and the brief eulogy was given by C.
C. MacLean. High tribute was paid
the women as sweethearts, wives,
mothers and even as mothers-in-law
and the choice sentiments which Mr.
MacLean so happily expressed found ready favor with the audience.

Danced Till Morning
The program closed, as it always does on these anniversaries, with the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire company. George Skinner being the leader. Immediately after the closing notes, the floor was cleared and dancing to the inspiring music of Smith's orchestra followed. The crowd was largely increased for the dance and day was dawning this morning when the last of the merry makers danced out the final waltz and wearily but happily wended their way home.

provement of American Hulled Beans

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, January 28, 1863.—The pirate Alabama has appeared at Galveston and has captured the gunboat Hatteras, the latter carrying four guns.
This, it appears, was done in the midst of the federal fleet, now off that port. The Alabama proceeded to sea, and if the Hatteras was not badly injured, is now manned by the rebels, and is an addition to their navy.
Our navy is losing its prestige, and must soon perform some exploit worthy of its name or sink in the public estimation.

Galveston is now in possession of 7,000 rebels, under Magruder, and so well fortified that it will require a large force to drive him out. Delays and incompetency on the part of our commanders has caused this state of things.

ALE COMPANY PLAN LOCAL EXTENSIONS

Robinson Brewing Company Contemplates the Erection of Bottling Works in This City Soon.

Improvements in this city to the extent of twenty thousand dollars are contemplated by the Robinson Brewing company. That amount of stock is to be offered for sale at a par value,
and the proceeds are to be devoted to the erection of a bottling factory. At present all bottling is done at Milwaukee under the supervision of Mr.
Perkins, one of the members of the firm, but the business is large enough to permit of the operation of both plants for turning out the glass encased goods.

Saloon proprietors and handlers of the product in all parts of the state are expected to buy the stock, thereby increasing their interest in the sale of the goods and making the corporate company personally alive to the advantage of booming Robinson's ale and porter.

Just when the bottling works will be built, Mr. Williams, the secretary and local manager of the company is not in a position to say. All will depend upon the sale of the stock, but the erection of the new structure is imperative, and will be pushed along
as rapidly as possible.

GREAT ENTHUSIASM IN FENCING CLASS

Association Class Under Tutelage of E. C. Bailey, Has Small Numbers But Great Zeal.

Under the instruction of Edward Bailey the fencing class of the Young Men's Christian association is making rapid progress. Tuesday evening is the regular meeting night, and last evening seven were present to exhibit their skill in the use of the foil. The class unusually meets in one of the upper class rooms of the association building, the auditorium of the adjoining parlors. The class is not as large as many others under the association curriculum, but the members are all enthusiastic and take hold of the work with a vim that makes up for abbreviated numbers.

GUND WAREHOUSE NEARLY COMPLETE

Building for the La Crosse Brewing Company Will Be Ready for Occupancy Before Long.

J. Fries, superintendent of building for the Gund Brewing company, has made great progress in erecting the warehouse at the foot of South Franklin street for the location of that company. By the end of next week, he says, the structure will be completed and ready for occupancy.
Ephraim Boots is to represent the big La Crosse brewers as agent.

The warehouse is a frame structure, 25 by 80 feet in ground dimensions, with the center ridgepole rising to a height of about thirty feet.
The building is abutting on the railroad, as near to the tracks as is allowed, in order to make handling goods direct from the car possible.
In the building are contained a stable and wagon shed, separated by a solid partition wall from the rest of the structure, an office at the opposite end of the warehouse, and rising between the two is the cold storage in which the malt product is to be placed ready for distribution.

SPOONER BANNER UNFURLED TODAY

W. H. Tripp, Rock County's Veteran
Republican, Celebrates Election of Senator.

Mr. William H. Tripp, the veteran republican of the town of Rock, is a great admirer of Senator Spooner.
He was unable to be present at Madison today and so will celebrate at home by unfurling a Spooner banner,
twelve feet long and three feet wide,
on which is inscribed in red and black letters the name of the senator.

Mr. Tripp has a flag staff dedicated to such occasions, and at high noon today, the Spooner banner was flung to the breeze. He says that he helped elect a United States Senator forty-six years ago and can afford to celebrate the election of Spooner today.

American Hulled Beans "All the bean but the Armor Plate," are not a food experiment—they are a practical common sense way of relieving the beans of their indigestible qualities, and increasing their value as food, by taking off their "Armor Plate Hulls." Put up in two pound cans ready for serving. Ask your grocer.

ICE CUTTERS DON'T LIKE THE WEATHER

It is Too Warm to Make the Packing
What It Should Be for the Best Ice.

For some persons this weather is ideal, but not for the ice-cutters. The Hub Brewing company has nearly filled one of its two ice houses, but they are in great fear that if this mild season continues much longer their ice will be spoiled. What they have already packed, coming as it does from their pond, is of unusually fine quality, clear as crystal and free from impurities, but it is likely to become "mushy" and soft unless the thermometer takes a quick drop. They will begin in a day or two, if all is auspicious, to fill their second ice house, which is somewhat larger than the first. All of their ice is packed for private use.

Tariff Propositions In Senate

The introduction of a maximum and minimum tariff proposition in the senate and its discussion lends interest to a statement recently published by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics regarding the maximum and minimum tariffs of the world and their method of application.

The maximum and minimum tariff system, it says, is distinguished from others, first of all, in its form. Instead of having two rates on most articles on which duties are imposed and for this reason is frequently called the double tariff system. In the application of these rates the maximum schedule corresponds to the general schedule and the minimum schedule to the conventional schedule of conventional tariffs, since the minimum rates are given only to those countries which receive the most-favored-nation treatment. The characteristic difference between the two systems, however, arises from the difference in their origin. The minimum schedule is not drawn up by negotiations between the executive of two countries, but is framed by the legislative body at the same time that the maximum schedule is made. That is, the legislative power fixes two rates of duty on each article in the tariff. The higher rate is the one which fixes the maximum extent to which those articles may be taxed on entering the country; the lower, or minimum rate, is the one which fixes the minimum extent to which the duty may be lowered. If it is desired to make commercial treaties at any time, these two rates show the exact limits between which the treaty rates are to be fixed.

The countries at present using a multiple or maximum and minimum tariff system are Spain, France, Brazil, Greece and Norway.

Spain's Tariff

The present tariff of Spain dates from 1892, when the commercial treaties were denounced and a consistent scheme of double rates was drawn up. At the same time the Spanish administration announced its intention of no longer making unconditional most favored nation treaties. Commercial relations with other countries at once became strained. A tariff war broke out with Germany, and the penalty tariffs of several countries were applied to Spanish goods. The relations at present are mainly on the basis of a provisional most-favored-nation treatment.

In Russia

In 1893 Russia adopted a system somewhat similar to that of France.

Instead of having a special rate on each article, however, as was the case in the French law, the Russian tariff made the general schedule (which was in use prior to 1892) the minimum schedule of the new tariff, and placed increases ranging as high as 30 per cent. over the minimum. Russia was not able to hold up the plan in its entirety, and was compelled to make commercial treaties with France and Germany, in which reductions on the minimum rates were given. At present, therefore, Russia's tariff system is composed of a maximum, a minimum, and a conventional schedule. The conventional rates are given to countries having most-favored-nation agreements, the minimum rates to other countries, while the maximum rates are intended to be used in case of a tariff war.

Brazilian Tariff

The Brazilian tariff of 1900 is arranged in a manner similar to the Russian. The tariff contains maximum and minimum rates, the latter to be applied to imports from those countries which treat Brazilian exports, especially coffee, on a favorable basis.

Greece

The experience of Greece with the minimum rates, but the later commercial treaties with Russia. The law of 1893 provided maximum and minimum rates, the latter commercial treaties reduced the latter, so that at present the rates applied to most-favored-nation countries are partially the conventional rates and partially the minimum rates.

In Norway the maximum rates are intended to be used only in case Norwegian goods are treated less favorably than those of any other country—that is, these rates are to be used in case of a tariff war.

France Prominent

Although Spain was the first country to attempt to use the system of maximum and minimum tariffs, France may be regarded as the country which has given the system its present prominence. The first efforts to have it adopted as the tariff system of France were made by M. Mellé in the late seventies and again in 1881, but all attempts were unsuccessful; ten years later, however, the demand for higher rates of duty became stronger and Mellé's party viewed the plan with more favor. The method of having conventional tariffs with the various countries with which France had commercial intercourse was the cause of much dissatisfaction at the time, as the investigation of the superior council of commerce showed. The existing treaties were denounced and Mellé's bill, after some modifications was adopted in January, 1892. The underlying idea of the plan was that the legislative body should fix the limits of the tariff rates below which the executive could not go in the effort to establish commercial connections with other countries. That is, the home industries were to be assured that they would not be disturbed by any attempts to alter the tariff rates in the minimum schedule and perfect stability of conditions was thus hoped for. On the other hand, in order to make it to the advantage of foreign countries to grant concession in France, in return for which they would receive the rates of the minimum tariff, it was supposed to make the difference between the maximum and minimum rates as large as possible, so that there would be a gain if the minimum rate were secured and a loss if it were not. The author of this bill also desired that the largest possible number of items should be included in the two schedules, as that would increase the power of compelling other countries to grant low duties in return for the rates of the minimum tariff. If any country refused to grant either the most-favored-nation treatment to French goods, or to apply tariff rates which the French officials considered low enough, the maximum tariff rates were to be imposed on all goods coming from or through that country.

Rates Differ

The rates of the two tariffs differ by about 75 per cent.—that is, the maximum rates average about 75 per cent. higher than those of the minimum tariff. Agricultural products were, however, given the same rates in both the maximum and minimum schedules. By special decree the administration was authorized to grant the minimum tariff to all countries which before 1892 had enjoyed the conventional tariff and which after that date had given French commodities the most-favored-nation treatment. Accordingly, only Portugal was subjected to the complete maximum tariff and the United States to part of it.

Obtained Reductions

The administration was not successful in maintaining the minimum tariff intact; Switzerland was able to obtain reductions on some thirty articles after a tariff war of three years, while Russia secured some concessions for its petroleum and Italy some reductions on miscellaneous articles.

ACCIDENT TO SLEIGHING PARTY

Dog Frightens Horses and Four Persons Are Injured.

Delafield, Wis., Jan. 28.—Three young men were seriously injured, one probably fatally, in a runaway accident. Edward Seaborn, Roy Pynn, John Allen and Carl Terren, the victims, were returning to a livery stable after a sleighing party in the country, when a large dog ran out from behind a clump of bushes in the roadway and frightened the horses. The occupants were thrown against a fence, except Pynn, who was crushed by the sleigh and suffered a severe fracture of the right thigh. Seaborn had a hip wrenched, and Allen and Terren were cut and bruised about the head and shoulders.

When the vessel struck the lifeboats were immediately lowered and all on board were taken off, and after a fierce struggle with the storm, succeeded in reaching shore safely. They were exhausted by the terrific fight against the wind and waves.

SAYS SMOOT WILL BE SEATED

Susan B. Anthony Believes He is a Decent Sort of Man.

Rochester, N. Y., Jan. 28.—The first intimation that there might be two sides to the Reed Smoot senatorial proposition in feminine eyes may be dated from Rochester when Miss Susan B. Anthony said to a reporter:

"I believe Mr. Smoot, the Mormon apostle, will take his seat in the United States senate, and that he will keep it. There seems to me no possibility of prevention. I am certain he has every right to the office he aspires to and to which he has been legally elected. He is not a polygamist, I understand, and is, according to all accounts, a decent sort of a man, even though a member of the Mormon church."

CHIEF OF POLICE IS INDICTED

Rock Island Grand Jury Tries to Reform the City.

Rock Island, Ill., Jan. 28.—The Rock Island county grand jury reported, having found 115 true bills during its three weeks' session, most of which was devoted to an investigation into the moral conditions of this city. One of the indictments is against James Darnell, chief of police, who is charged with malfeasance in office, it being alleged that he instructed policemen under him to not molest saloonkeepers and gamblers who were openly defying the laws. The bulk of the indictments are against saloonkeepers who harbored women and maintained gambling devices in their places of business.

MILLIONAIRE GETS A DIVORCE

Sioux Falls, S. D., Jan. 28.—William B. Baldwin, a New England millionaire, well known in a number of Eastern cities, and who immediately prior to coming to South Dakota eight or ten months ago was a resident of Pittsfield, Mass., was granted a divorce in the Circuit court from his wife, Anna L. Baldwin, residing in New York. The decree was granted on the ground of cruel and inhuman treatment, and there was no defense.

EMMA GOLDMAN IS ARRESTED

New York, Jan. 28.—Emma Goldman, the anarchist, and a man giving the name of Max Bagdinsky and describing himself as a "writer" of Chicago, were arrested in a street car as suspicious persons. After a brief detention at police headquarters the pair were allowed to depart.

Surgical Operation Wrecked My Nerves.

Dr. Miles' Nerve Restored My Health.

"A few years ago I had to submit to a surgical operation which caused me severe spinal trouble. After treatment I could not gain strength because of extreme nervousness. I took everything I could hear of that was supposed to be good for my trouble but all in vain. I had not had a night's sleep in weeks, when one day one of your circulars was thrown into our yard and after reading what your Nerve had done for others, I resolved to try it. The second night after taking it I slept soundly for the first time in many months and after taking a few bottles I was completely cured. I also used the Nerve Plaster for backache with very gratifying results. I shall always be grateful for the benefits received from Dr. Miles' Restorative Remedies."—Mrs. C. W. Heaman, Savannah, Mo.

"I wish to thank you for the good your medicine has done me. It has almost worked wonders in my case. I was subject to nervous headaches for a period of thirty years. I had doctored with several doctors and had taken a number of different kinds of patent medicines, all to no avail. I was discouraged for I could not get permanent relief. At last I began a trial of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve and Nerve and Liver Pills. I am now completely cured and words cannot express my thankfulness to you and your medicine. If any one wishes to write to me personally I will gladly answer their letters."—J. W. Grant, Ingham, Ill.

world of light opera; but the music of "King Dodo" has won for him the praise of all lovers of light catchy music. There is no clap-trap nor striving to gain a position for the music, which the book does not demand, but the ear is filled with the delightful strains of pretty music that no one can hum upon hearing its repetition, and you go away glad you have at last heard something your ear can retain, and music that will be enjoyable as long as it is well sung. In King Dodo Luders has brought all the parts together, and has given to this success all the musical genius of his heart and brain. King Dodo will be seen here tonight.

OUR TERRITORIES

The contiguous territory of the United States is supplying a large and growing market to the producers and manufacturers of the U. S. The October statement of the Treasury Bureau of Statistics shows that the shipments of merchandise from the U. S. to Porto Rico in the 10 months ending with October, 1902, amounted to practically $10,000,000—a million dollars a month against 6-3-4 millions in the corresponding months of last year. To the Philippines the shipments in the 10 months ending with October were over 4 million dollars, against a little over 3 millions in the corresponding months of last year, and 2 1/2 in the same months of 1900. To the Hawaiian Islands the collection of statistics of shipments was only resumed with the month of June, and the figures therefore do not cover the 10 months' period as is the case in the commerce with Porto Rico and the Philippines; but the annual shipments from the U. S. to the Hawaiian Islands are estimated at about $20,000,000 per annum. To Alaska, the record of shipments was begun with June, and amounted during the 4 months ending with October to nearly $3,000,000. The figures at hand for these four noncontiguous territories—Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines and Alaska—indicate that they will furnish during the coming year about to end a market for about $40,000,000 worth of the products of the U. S., chiefly agricultural and manufactured products.

On the import side the report of the Bureau of Statistics indicates that these island territories are also contributing largely to the growing demand of the United States for tropical products. In the ten months, ending with October, the shipments from Hawaii to the United States amounted in round terms to 21 million dollars, and those from Porto Rico to the United States to nearly 9 millions, against 6 1/2 millions in the corresponding months of last year; while from the Philippines the receipts were over 7 million dollars, and from Alaska over 8 million dollars, in the four months ending with October. These figures indicate that the annual contribution of tropical products by the tropical territory under control of the United States will amount in the present year to about 45 million dollars; and that the receipts of merchandise from Alaska will amount to fifteen million dollars, making the total receipts of merchandise from the noncontiguous territory nearly or quite 60 million dollars in value, and the shipments from the United States to that territory 40 million dollars.

The principal articles received from the territory in question are: from Hawaii, sugar, amounting in the 10 months ending with October to 645 million pounds valued at 20 million dollars; from Porto Rico, sugar, and molasses, amounting to 6 1/2 million dollars, and tobacco, nearly 2 millions; from the Philippines, manila hemp amounting in value to over 7 million dollars in the 10 months ending with October; from Alaska, salmon, amounting to nearly 7 1/2 million dollars in the four months ending with October.

The principal articles for which the territory in question supplies the market are as follows: To Porto Rico during the 10 months ending with October, cotton cloths, 22 million yards, valued at $1,211,000; iron and steel manufactures, $1,164,000; breadstuffs, $954,000, of which $553,000 is flour; boots and shoes $136,000; malt liquors, $118,000; fish, $217,000; provisions, $1,196,000, of which $916,000 represents value of hog products; rice, 47 million pounds, valued at $1,652,000. To the Philippine Islands, iron and steel manufactures to the value of $725,000; mineral oil, $270,000; paper and manufactures thereof, $209,000; provisions, $163,000 cotton cloths, $324,000; hay, $108,000; wood and manufactures of, $252,000 and scientific instruments, $105,000. The shipments to the Philippine Islands include manufactures of all classes, especially iron and steel, also flour and other breadstuffs. To Alaska the largest items are provisions, breadstuffs, fruits and nuts, iron and steel manufactures, vegetables, tobacco and manufactures of wood.

TAX COMMISSION REPORT

The report of the State Tax Commission covering some 250 pages, gives evidence of careful research, and conscientious work. It represents the labor of four years, and contains a large amount of valuable information.

The recommendations attached, are free from the spirit of dictation, and evidence the fact that the commission does not regard the conclusions as absolute.

In the matter of mortgage taxation, the only rational view is considered. The man who owns a $10,000 farm, or a $10,000 stock of goods encumbered with a $5,000 mortgage, is worth for his taxable purposes or any other, simply his equity.

If he is taxed on a $10,000 valuation, he is paying taxes on the mortgage equity, as well as his own. This lacks the first elements of either justice or common sense.

The commission recognizes the fact that mortgages come under the class of intangible property, and they are more or less difficult to locate, because the mortgage is frequently the resident of another state, but this is not the fault of the mortgagee, and he should not be held responsible for it.

The assessors of every state are confronted with the problem of this class of property, and there is no reason why Wisconsin should act as the guardian of other states by making the mortgage a cat's paw.

As to railroad taxation, while the commission is of the opinion that the ad valorem system is the most equitable, it recommends that a most careful investigation be made before radical changes are introduced.

The commission realizes that the railroads are liberal taxpayers, and that it is extremely difficult to get at a just valuation of railroad property in any individual state.

This class of corporations have already taken the matter in hand, and while they may not oppose the ad valorem system, they will ask to be assured that it shall be established on an equitable basis. They feel that when this is done that their proportion of state taxes will be diminished, rather than increased.

The question is a large one and the legislature can well afford to give the companies interested, a respectful hearing. The state will gain nothing by adopting a fighting policy against railroads, however popular this policy may be. It might be helpful to remember that the heavy patrons of transportation companies are not complaining about freight charges or taxes.

MARCONI'S TRIUMPH

There is a significance in the circumstance that the establishment of the Marconi system attracts immeasurably less attention than did Field's experiment. There was rejoicing throughout the United States and England when the Field cable was first finished, and the leading cities of the continent of Europe, too, participated in the jollification. On the other hand the sending of the Marconi messages arouses comparatively little interest anywhere. Nevertheless the beginning of a revolution in the methods of communication over sea and land has taken place. Possibly Marconi may not live to see it, although the probability is that he will, a mode of transmission of intelligence has been established which is undoubtedly destined to abolish all communication by wire, and to make the great cable systems and the present immense land telegraphs antiquated and useless. One of the greatest marvels of an age in which marvels have been so numerous that they have ceased to astonish anybody has just been added to the world's utilities.

SCARCITY OF OIL

It is said that in the history of petroleum there has never been such a scarcity of the crude product. The Standard Oil company is drawing on its surplus oil at the rate of 12,000,000 barrels a year and these figures may be taken as a fair estimate of the amount of high-grade crude oil the fields of the United States are short of the demands of the markets of the world. The shipments at the end of December probably reached 1,660,170 barrels. This means the production is much behind the demand. In view of these figures it is easy to account for the fact that prices have advanced 39 cents a barrel in the past year.

Now that Mr. Spooner is elected it is to be hoped that the governor's private organ in Milwaukee will let up on its slurring articles and general hints. The truth is that the paper feels justly sore that Senator Spooner was a bigger man than the man who framed the state platform and the people of the state realized it and said he must be chosen. Poor organ.

Muddy streets and streams of water in place of crosswalks bring out the facts that some city money could be well expended in keeping the public thoroughfares in repair even if the Municipal League is investigating expenses.

As long as Col. Lynch is to be imprisoned for life there is some hope of his being free before many years. If he had been hanged he would have been a popular saint in Ireland for time to come.

England's motto, "Once an Englishman always an Englishman" seems to hold good at this present day despite the fact that the War of 1812 settled the matter as far as Americans were concerned.

Think of a lot of half bred Spanish and negro gunners keeping the royal artillery shots of Germany at bay for four days and then just submitting when necessity compels them to and their last gun had exploded.

It appears that no one offered any one any money to decide upon the purchase of the Holland submarine boats. The question is whether the boats will be bought or not now.

Strange as it may seem the newspapers have left King Anonzo alone for the past few days. What new devilry is he planning that he is so quiet?

Now that Senator Hanna has conclusively proved that a meddling old woman is not wanted in Delaware politics and that he has probably defeated Addicks for good and all he may go way back and sit down.

Now that congress has cleared Mr. Lessing and Mr. Quigg of any part in the attempted bribery they have laid all the blame upon the other gentleman who is a self-confessed liar.

European war correspondents have forgotten the war cloud in the Balkans and now that Saxony is to be annexed to Prussia because of the present scandal.

The Methodists did better than raising $20,000,000 thanks offering. They converted a million and a half of people, they claim.

It is true the nation's pension list is a long one, but there are many veterans who are receiving but a pittance in their old age.

There seems to be a little Cuban-American war down on the Isle of Pines.

Target practice by the German navy in Venezuela is to be stopped on Thursday. That is they say so.

GEORGE O. FORD WEDS IN HASTE

SECOND ROMANCE FOR FORMER JANESVILLE BOY.

MET AND MARRIED IN ONE DAY

Young People Meet at a Friend's Home, Fall in Love and Call a Minister.

George O. Ford, a former Janesville boy, has taken a second headlong plunge into matrimony, even eclipsing in this instance his own former record for hasty wooing. Five or six years ago Mr. Ford started this city, Chicago and this entire section of the country by his sudden and sensational marriage to Florence Lillian Wickes, daughter of the vice president of the Pullman Car company of Chicago.

His First Marriage
Mr. Ford had known Miss Wickes less than two weeks she being the guest of his sister, Miss Kittie Ford, in this city. No license was necessary at that time and the couple were married at Trinity church immediately after the groom's proposal. The young couple took a trip to St. Louis in Mr. Wickes' private car and all was sunshine and roses for a brief time. Then clouds began to gather, the bride repented her hasty step, left her young husband, went on the stage and secured a divorce.

End of First Romance
Miss Wickes failed to win fame before the footlights and it has been several years since Mr. Ford made Janesville his home. With his parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Ford, he moved to Chicago and he is now a traveling salesman for an Indianapolis wholesale house. Interest in his sensational romance, which made his name known all over the United States, has died out with the passing years, but it will be revived by his recent matrimonial escapade.

Tries His Luck Again
In his second venture, introduction, courtship and marriage all occurred within one brief day. His bride was Miss Lucille Murray, of Indianapolis, and the wedding took place at Covington, Ind. Mr. Ford's Janesville friends hope that his second hasty wedding may result more happily for him than the first. The Chicago-American publishes the story of the wedding which occurred Sunday, Jan. 18, together with likenesses of the bride and groom, that of Mr. Ford being excellent.

The American's Story
The story was sent to the American in a special dispatch from Covington, dated January 23. Covington has long been the Gretna Green for lovers from neighboring cities, thus runs the story as published in the American, so couple's capers are not thought much of locally. But everyone in this town is talking of the latest matrimonial affair—to meet, to fall in love and don't marry all in a day.

Mr. George O. Ford, a traveling salesman of Indianapolis, is tall and handsome and thirty years old. He and J. G. Evans, an attorney of this city, are intimate friends. Ford

JAMES SENNETT HAS A BAD FIRE

WOOD STOVE IS CAUSE OF THE BLAZE.

FAMILY FLEE IN NIGHTCLOTHES

Fire Was Confined to Three Rooms—
Damage Will Amount to Two Thousand Dollars.

Quick work on the part of the fire department saved the saloon and living rooms owned and occupied by James Sennett at 114 West Milwaukee street from being completely gutted by fire about 7:30 this morning. As it was damage to the amount of $2,000 was done to the building and contents.

Family in Bed
At the time of the fire Mr. Sennett and his family were still in bed and were forced to flee from the burning building in their night clothes to escape the flames and suffocating smoke.

Mr. Sennett's little daughter was found in the smoke filled hall at the head of the stairs and carried out of the building to friends across the street by E. B. Helmsstreet. She was nearly overcome by the dense smoke when taken from the building.

Caught From A Stove
The fire is supposed to have started from an air tight wood stove, which was in the kitchen located near the center of the flat on the east side. It stood in a corner of the room directly back of a door leading from the hallway and the blaze must have started from this door which opened within a few inches of the stove.

The pine woodwork and furniture of the room made a quick fire and a dense smoke which it was almost impossible to penetrate.

Started The Stove
Milton Jenkins, a young man employed by Mr. Sennett, went up stairs about seven o'clock and started a fire in the stove. He then went down stairs and started to clean up the saloon for the day's business. He had been there about fifteen minutes when he heard a snapping noise up stairs. He had set a steel trap up stairs the night before to catch a rat and supposed that this was the noise he heard.

Discovers The Fire
He started up stairs to investigate and as he opened the door from the saloon into the stair way, was greeted by a rush of smoke and also met Geo. Sennett, the son of the proprietor, rushing down the stairs to send in an alarm. George had been awakened by the smoke and finding the building on fire called to the family and then started for the alarm box.

Quick Work By Firemen
Fifty-one at the corner of West Milwaukee and Jackson streets was rung in and in a short space of time the department was on the spot ready for work. Two leads of hose were laid, one being taken in at the front of the building and the other at the rear through the alleyway. It was but a short time before the fire was under control and was soon extinguished, the flames being confined to the kitchen and dining room and a portion of the front hall.

The entire building, however, was damaged by smoke and water.

Lots of Smoke
It was a bad fire to fight on account of the dense smoke, which made it almost impossible to enter the building. Had the blaze occurred at night where it would have had more time to burn before being discovered, the building would certainly have been wrecked and it might have entailed loss of life.

Loss Covered By Insurance
Mr. Sennett had $2,500 insurance on the building and $800 on the fixtures and furniture.

VEGETATO IS THE MARKET NAME

CONCENTRATED FLAKED POTATO WILL BE KNOWN THUS.

FACTORY CLOSED FOR A TIME

Obstacles Have Been Encountered
Which Will Require a Change
In the Mechanical Process.

Vegetato is the order that the house wife will have to place when she calls upon her grocer for a package of the Concentrated Flaked Potato company's product. The company has been obliged to adopt that name in order to comply with the provisions of the copyright law which prohibits the use of a descriptive name. Using Vegetato as the commercial name by which the ready-prepared potato is to be known, a gorgeous wrapper has been designed, setting forth the merits of the preparation for "lunch, dinner, breakfast, and supper."

Further instructions advise its use "fried for breakfast, mashed for dinner, creamed for supper, or as you like for lunches, camping, hunting, travelling, etc."

Unfortunately the general public will not be able to judge of merits of Vegetato for some time to come, probably not before the next crop of the tubers which form its sole ingredient are on the market. It has been found after repeated experiments that some of the machinery which has been employed thus far is not of the type best suited for the work. Just where the difficulty lies is not made known, but since the first of this week the factory has been lying idle. Orders have been placed for the necessary parts for the new equipment, but it remains to be seen how many weeks or months will be required to fill the orders.

Mr. Frank Bunyan wishes it expressly understood that not a package of Vegetato will be marketed before he has satisfied himself that every step of the process is as nearly perfect as can be. For the present the factory is nothing but an experimental station, and will continue to be used for that purpose as long as necessary.

Cadets Take Vacation: Although Tuesday is the regular evening for their drill, the Christ church cadets did not meet last night. They will not resume their usual activity until the end of the series of mission services.

GRANT AND VICKSBURG

(Copyright, 1902, by G. L. Kilmer.)

A FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY WAR STORY

November 29 to December 2, 1862

calling upon the authorities at Richmond for reinforcements to cope with Grant. He asked that troops be sent him from the army of Bragg in east Tennessee and from the force west of the Mississippi, where there was then no active enemy to contend with.

Grant controlled in the limits of his department 50,000 troops. His movement southward was three times checked by orders from the war department, which favored the expedition down the river. He was finally given discretion in the case, but cautioned not to "go too far" in the march overland against Pemberton. Sherman commanded two divisions in Grant's army and had held them at Memphis. Grant at first intended to take all his force against Pemberton, and Sherman joined him about the time his infantry crossed the Tallahatchie, Dec. 2.

There were weighty reasons against a divided movement upon Vicksburg over the land and water routes. The Confederates held interior lines and could easily use the same troops to fight Grant's column in Mississippi and one going down the river, while these columns could only support each other by the long course back to Memphis and then to the point of danger many days' travel to the front. Seeing, however, that the war department was firm in its purpose to make an attack down the river, even though Grant should go ahead on the course he had adopted overland, that general called Sherman into his councils, and the result was that Sherman and not Grant led the first formidable attack upon the fortifications of Vicksburg.

After considerable telegraphing with Washington, Grant was ordered to have 20,000 troops at Memphis for an attack down the river. A large part of these troops was to be new recruits, and it was known that General J. A. McClernand, then stationed in Illinois, was raising men for the purpose of an expedition down the river. McClernand was of higher rank than Sherman and had authority from the president and secretary of war to command the river expedition independent of Grant.

In order to forestall McClernand, Grant, who finally got authority to either lead the troops he was to send with the expedition down the river in person or appoint another to the task, sent Sherman. Sherman's instructions were to take one of his own divisions and the troops of General Curtis, then at Memphis, and proceed at once down the Mississippi and with the aid of the volunteers reduce the Confederate fortress. By prompt action Sherman's expedition got under way before McClernand was ready, and he retained the chief command to the end.

After Sherman had cut loose from Grant and the forces were separated there was a new problem for the commander in northern Mississippi. Should he be defeated in battle the Confederates could overrun west Tennessee and even Kentucky and, once in the rear of Sherman, destroy his supplies and take Memphis in his rear. The new situation, therefore, imposed extra caution upon Grant. Against his own judgment he had divided his army in the face of the enemy, and either wing was weaker than the enemy when he concentrated his strength, which he could readily do. It was understood between Grant and Sherman that, in case Pemberton refused to stand for battle against Grant's column and marched back to Vicksburg to checkmate Sherman, Grant would follow close on his heels and get into position to attack the Confederate rear while Sherman engaged on the front.

It was expected that Pemberton would look first to the safety of Vicksburg, for that was the problem set before him.

Sherman's force was insignificant as compared with all that Pemberton could marshal against him if he chose to ignore Grant. But if Grant could keep Pemberton away from Vicksburg the task would be easy, for the actual garrison of the Vicksburg fortress at the time was only about 6,000 men.

Pemberton's urgent call for more troops to hold Vicksburg against Grant was an evidence that he had little confidence in his ability to guard the immediate fortress and also cover the large territory adjacent and lying exposed to the Federal columns. But he did not give up the task of warding off the threatened blow. While Grant was planning and making dispositions the Confederate cavalryman Forrest gathered his rough riders in west Tennessee for a dash upon the Mississippi Central railroad, upon which Grant depended for communications with his main base in Kentucky. Forrest had come from Bragg's camp in east Tennessee. Bragg could spare no infantry to reinforce Pemberton, but he promptly sent what aid he could in the shape of a raiding cavalcade.

While Forrest was preparing for his bold ride behind Grant, Pemberton set on foot a similar expedition with forces nearer home. General Earl Van Dorn, who was at the head of the largest body of the troops fielded in Mississippi, had the reputation of a dashing leader for mounted men. A raid under his leadership was planned to strike the railroad just in rear of Grant's line and destroy his army stores. These two bolts hung over Grant while he was pushing his way toward the Yallahusha, with Sherman speeding away in another direction.

GEORGE L. KILMER.

WASHINGTON'S CAVALRY DASH AT GRENADA the enemy as well as the strength of his foe. Pemberton's headquarters were at Jackson, Miss., a point east of Vicksburg. He commanded, all told, about 40,000 men. The front line was under the leadership of General Earl Van Dorn, who had fought Rosecrans at Corinth in October. Van Dorn had about 21,000 men and 10,000 more were in garrison at Vicksburg and Port Hudson.

Having brought his army into close touch with the enemy in Mississippi, Grant was loath to weaken his movement by detaching large bodies of troops to support another plan. He believed that a steady advance overland would compel the Confederates to draw all their strength to the defense of the territory threatened. Even in the event of another Federal expedition down the river, he held that his own march overland would induce the Confederates to mass their strength on his front to impede his progress southward, and all the troops retained there would by just so much weaken the true defenders of Vicksburg. As the matter stood the first week in December, Pemberton was

Points a Moral.

The awards at the International Live stock show tend to prove it very much the same with the lower animals as with human beings, in that the longest pedigree does not always mean the finest stock. In other words, the unpretentious human maverick often walks away with the prize, while his thoroughbred rival is being cajoled and curried.

Mountain Threatens Disaster.

Great Alps, a mountain near the Gemini, in the Bernese Oberland, is threatening to split asunder and overwhelm the neighboring valley. In September, 1895, a great fall of ice from the Alps covered hundreds of acres of meadow land in the neighborhood of Spitalmatten.

She was so absorbed in her work that she neglected to give her health proper care—failed to take warning that the symptoms of approaching kidney trouble gave her, the sallow complexion and torpid liver. But Wine of Cardui cured her the same as it has cured thousands of others and Mrs. McDonald has written this letter in order that other suffering women may secure from Wine of Cardui the same relief she got from it.

"For four years I suffered with torpid liver until my skin looked yellow and dull. I then found my kidneys were affected and had severe pains across my back, and I felt that I must do something to regain my health. A friend advocated your Wine of Cardui treatment so strongly that I decided to try it, although I had little faith in patent medicines. I am now very thankful that I did so, for within ten days blessed relief came to me, and in less than three months I was cured, and have enjoyed fine health ever since. I know there is nothing better for a sick woman who wishes to enjoy perfect health and am very pleased to give my hearty endorsement."

No suffering woman can afford to ignore such a letter as Mrs. McDonald writes. Her plans and advice have proved valuable in building up one of the greatest women's organizations in the United States and she takes time to give advice which she knows will help you.

LAUDED THE LAND OF ROBERT BURNS

WALLACE BRUCE SPOKE OF THE SCOTTISH SHRINES.

PRAISE FOR SCOTTISH BARD

Lecturer Under Auspices of People's Course, Spoke in Congregational Church Tuesday Evening.

Robert Burns had a sturdy champion Tuesday evening in Wallace Bruce, who appeared at the Congregational church before the patrons of the People's Lecture course. For him Scotland existed only as the land that gave birth to the poet who gave to the world the "Cotter's Saturday Night." For him it is a land filled with historic associations and the poetry of beautiful mountains and lakes. His subject was "Scottish Shrines," but it might more appropriately have been named "The Land of Burns."

Mr. Bruce, who is a man of leonine head, snowy flowing locks, and a kindly, ringing voice, spoke in glowing terms of the natural beauty of Scotland. Many an anecdote was interspersed to give added point to his argument, and in his wit he showed a humor well-nigh as caustic, as subtle, and as pungent as that of the canny Scots of whom he spoke.

No wonder, said he, that in a land of such wondrous beauty Burns wrote such poetry. Within a circle of one hundred and twenty miles in diameter there is included a number of associations with memorable men and events, of nature's beauty spots, of scenes to inspire man's noblest efforts, unequalled on the earth's surface.

Traits of Scottish Character. In the Scot is blended more different strains of blood than any other race in the world. There is the ancient Caledonian, the Gaelic, a touch of Roman, the hardy Norwegian, the transported blood from the Elbe, the Celtic and many others. Robert Burns seems, said Mr. Bruce, the epitome of all of these, the type of all of the different traits which go to make up the Scottish character.

The Scot is an extraordinary ubiquitous individual. It is said that if the North Pole is ever discovered, a Scotchman will be found sitting beside it.

Scotland is a notable instance of the power of a small nation. An express train will take the traveler across the country, from the Atlantic to the North Sea, in fifty minutes. The whole land is no larger than the state of Massachusetts. To illustrate the misapprehensions which exist among the Scottish children as to the comparative size of their land with others, Mr. Bruce narrated several incidents which came under his eye while he was stationed in Scotland as consul.

Sacred Shrines. Sacred associations connected with numbers of the well known shrines of the land were referred to briefly, but with a quick descriptive phrase to clearly differentiate each from the others.

Margaret's chapel, the Isle of Iona, Holyrood and Melrose abbeys, the tomb of John Knox, and many other shrines were spoken of. The inspiration of Bannockburn, and of Arthur of the Round Table were lovingly referred to. In fact love for the scenes and events of which he spoke seemed the key note of every thought which the lecturer uttered.

A Small Land. Repeatedly Mr. Bruce referred to the magnitude of its historic import when compared to its size. It is a little country, but countries are not always measured by square miles. The poetic shrines of the land were termed the greatest of all in the land of many well known shrines. Scotland may be divided poetically into the highlands, the border country, and the western coast. The first is known for its rugged inspiration, the second for romance, and the third the practical—the land of Burns.

Praise For Burns. But although Mr. Bruce referred in detail to the physical characteristics of the land, its historic spots, and its great men, he lavished his choicest encomiums upon Robert Burns. Scott, he said, was Scotland in folio; Burns was Scotland in diamond, a pocket edition. By the particular he taught the universal. No farm ever produced so rich a crop as the field in which he upturned the mouse and the daisy. No picture of man's faith in God is equal to his "Cotter's Saturday Night." Whittier only faintly outlined it in "Snowbound." By these and many other tributes the speaker indicated his great admiration of Burns.

INJUNCTION AGAINST FOWLS

Unique Decision by Ohio Judge in a Chicken Case.

Kenton, O., Jan. 28.—Judge Taylor has made a unique decision here in the case of Winfield Redabaugh vs. Altona Barnum. The plaintiff claimed that the defendant's chickens ruined his crops and prayed for an injunction. A perpetual injunction was granted restraining the offending fowls from wandering on Redabaugh's fields.

Object to Smoot.

San Francisco, Jan. 28.—The ministers of the Christian churches here have passed resolutions protesting against the acceptance of Reed Smoot, Mormon apostle, as United States senator from Utah.

MEETINGS LARGELY ATTENDED

Mission Services at Christ and Trinity Churches Draw Crowds

Many ardent admirers of the Holy Cross Fathers are won at every meeting of the Mission now in progress at Trinity and Christ Episcopal churches. Their earnest eloquence is alike pleasing and convincing, and those who have been instrumental in securing their presence at this time are well satisfied with the result. The regular schedule of meetings is being followed, no preliminary announcement being made of the division of the Fathers between the two churches at each session.

BAKER MFG CO. AMENDS ARTICLES

Increases Capital Stock to Four Hundred Thousand—Part Used in Profit Sharing.

An amendment to the articles of incorporation of the Baker Manufacturing Co., of Evansville, was filed with the register of deeds yesterday. The capital stock of the company is increased to $400,000 and divided into two thousand shares fully paid up to be known as preferred stock and two thousand shares of $100 each to be known as common stock to be used in profit sharing.

This company inaugurated the profit sharing system with its employees a year or two ago and it is now the intention of the company to give the employees a chance to invest their profits in company stock which will give them a greater interest in making the concern a success.

SOUTH SECOND ST. TO SPAN RAVINE

That is What Forest Park Property Owners Propose To Do This Spring

This spring it is proposed to extend South Second street across the ravine to connect with Garfield avenue in Forest Park.

This would mean the bringing of Forest Park lots in close communication with building lots on Sinclair street that have been sold during the past year at prices as high as $1,500 each. The plan of extension has been strongly advocated for some time past and it now looks as though there would be no trouble in carrying out the building of this new street. Forest Park property owners on Garfield avenue and Jefferson avenue and Forest Park boulevard have expressed a willingness to stand the greater portion of the expense.

JUDGE GRAY SCORES AN EXPERT WITNESS

Chairman Uses Harsh Language Toward Auditor Ross, Who Appeared for Markle & Co.

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 28.—Before the coal strike commission G. B. Markle & Co. concluded their case with testimony of P. Edward Ross, who has audited the accounts of the company for ten years. Ross asked permission to correct figures in the company's answer. When the corrections were made most of the amounts given as average wages were reduced.

Ross was asked to explain the statement of Mrs. Michael Burns that her husband had died indebted to the company and that, although she and her son both worked for the company, they were unable to liquidate the debt for a number of years. The witness' answers were unsatisfactory and Chairman Gray, becoming impatient, said: "Of all things in the world, get a professional accountant who can't see anything unless it is in a column of figures. Let us get at the facts that underlie the bookkeepers' statement. Do you know whether the boy or his mother received any money from the company during the time specified?"

"I don't know," answered the witness.

Addressing the company's counsel, Chairman Gray said: "This man doesn't know anything about this case."

Further questioning elicited the information that Mrs. Burns was indebted to the company for coal and rent which was eventually charged to profit and loss.

MITCHELL CAN SECURE PLACE AS ARBITRATOR

Governor Yates Offers Miners' President Position on Illinois State Board.

Springfield, Ill., Jan. 28.—John Mitchell, president of the United Mineworkers of America, will be offered a place on the Illinois state board of arbitration. He is now at Indianapolis, Ind., presiding over the Miners' national convention.

Col. John Oglesby, secretary to Gov. Yates, left for Indianapolis with a letter from the governor addressed to Mr. Mitchell offering him a place on the board. The letter has not been made public, but it is understood that in it the governor says that the people of his state are proud of the board of arbitration, that he is anxious to see its usefulness continued and believes Mr. Mitchell's identification with it would contribute to the public good.

Mr. Mitchell is a resident of Illinois and formerly was vice president of the Illinois organization of the United Mineworkers. His present political status is somewhat uncertain, but it is understood that in offering him this appointment the governor did not take politics into consideration.

His Majesty the Baby.

While the little Prince Leopold of Belgium was being taken out for a drive by his nurse a company of the Civic Guard passed, and, seeing the prince, halted and presented arms. The nurse took the baby's hand and put it to his forehead in a military salute—the first the baby had ever made.

buys a Cloak now will have just as up-to date a garment as the woman who bought before price cutting began, and next winter both will be on equal footing as regards appearance, as both will have garments that are different than the prevailing style or styles of next winter, which is certain to be the case, no matter when one buys, be it early or late. The money saved by any woman who buys a Cloak now may be enough to allow her to have some other article that she has long desired, or if charitably inclined, enough to help a poor friend to have a New Cloak.

INSTALL OFFICERS WITH CEREMONIES

Women's Catholic Order of Foresters Held Banquet and Formal Installation Last Evening.

Newly elected officers were installed by the Women's Catholic Order of Foresters last evening in their hall on the Corn Exchange. After the ceremonies of installation a social session followed, and then the tables were spread for a tastefully planned banquet. Palms and cut carnations, artistically grouped, formed the table decorations. Toasts by the Rev. W. A. Goebel, Dr. M. A. Cunningham, Rev. James McGinnity, and Mrs. B. Turbutt filled out the evening, all of them responding with an excellent mixture of wit and wisdom.

Misses Edith Dilzer, Mary Klein, Susie Myer, and Lizzie Craven served the guests during the banquet, covers being laid for nearly one hundred. The committee of arrangements consisted of Mesdames D. Morrissey, Jerome Cunningham and J. Flaherty.
